

WIRELESS TANK LEVEL SENSOR

REMOTE TANK MONITORING, MADE EASY.

F7 RTM is advanced technology that remotely monitors bulk liquid tanks, is user-friendly and provides real time tank levels via a cloud-based app or online system. Allowing you instant access to your fluid inventory, for a fraction of the cost of traditional systems.

F7 consists of an innovative one-piece hardware technology installed into the tank and uses the latest in Bluetooth technology and relay units to provide you with tank levels.

All information is transmitted from the F7 to a cloud-based fluid management database software using cellular communication and real time updates. The capability to monitor the tank locally via our app adds further value.

FlowInfo is a Kiwi company on a mission to make liquid management easy for businesses. They aim to support businesses with their inventory management and monitoring across their business through innovative solutions.
